Zero-distance professional service is one of the main reasons for long-term cooperation between OREON and MEAN WELL

Date: Jan. 19, 2019

OREON is one of the few companies in the Netherlands that is leading the industry in horticultural lighting. OREON's first commercial project with water-cooled LED fixtures was installed back in 2009. The unique water-cooled concept ensures the LEDs and electronic parts are continuously cooled, which is the best guarantee for trouble-free growing for many years. In addition, the water-cooling makes it also possible to produce high lighting levels with a high efficiency and offers the opportunity to re-use the gained heat. OREON offers growers customized LED lighting solutions, to further optimize their growth and business cases.

OREON stands for innovation, quality and flexibility. As one of the leaders in the horticultural lighting field, OREON has carefully selected its supplier partners, and chose MEAN WELL as its long-term supplier many years ago. For OREON, MEAN WELL continuously to meet its high-quality requirements, provides zero-distance professional services, and continuously develops new products, thus affirming MEAN WELL as its reliable partner.
